Most knitters learn to knit socks from the cuff down to the toe, but they can also be knitted in the opposite direction—from toe up to the cuff, eliminating the need to pick up stitches for the gusset or work the dreaded Kitchener stitch. Learn to knit socks from the toe up using an Eastern caston, short-row heel, and flexible sewn bind-off. You will make a baby-size sock to learn all of the skills in one day and leave ready to knit socks in a variety of sizes and yarn weights.
